Andrew Heiser Was Convicted Voluntary Manslaughter.

HAD REFUSED TO MAKE THAT PLEA

A True Bill for Conspiracy Against Alderman Porter Et Al.

TO MAKE WILMERDING A BOROUGH.

Various Small Occurrences at the Big Pile on the BIIL.

Andrew Heiser was convicted of voluntary manslaughter in the causing of the death of Charles Wilson. He had previously refused to accept of the same result as an offered ples. Alderman Porter and sundry constables find true bills for conspiracy overhanging them.

The trial of Andrew Heiser for the killing of Charles Wilson was concluded in Criminal Court yesterday. The prosecution closed with the testimony of Joseph Haller and Mrs. Ann Hadley. The former had heard Wilson say "I am cut," when at work near the scene of the trouble.

Mrs. Hadley was also in the vicinity, and heard Wilson and Heiser in an argument and quarrel. Heiser called Wilson a "nigger," and Wilson hit him. Heiser struck back, and again Wilson hit him, when the defendant and again Wilson hit him, when the defendant struck at Wilson's body, and the latter cried cut. "You have murdered me."

The defense was then opened by Mr. Marcum, who said Heiser had only acted in self-defense. That he was partially crippled and no match for Wilson, and that he believed he was being abused when he struck the blow.

The defendant, Heiser, was placed on the stand and told his side of the trouble. He said he was a gardener working for Mrs. Scott, a neighbor of Mr. McCleane, when the trouble he was a gardener working for Mrs. Scott, as neighbor of Mr. McCleane, when the trouble took place.

His left arm was disabled and counct be used to any extent. He was sent to Mr. McCleane for an ax. He saked Wilson for it but was refused and he returned home. He was then sent back to McCleane's, and went to the front door to ask for it. Wilson was in the carriage house and ran out to him, wanting to know what he wanted. He told and Wilson became very angry. A little girl told him he could bave the ax, and when he turned to go home Wilson the and after him and called him hard names. He opened his peaknife and put it in his pocket, and as Wilson still followed him they kept up a war of words, Wilson threatening him. When Wilson this he was stunned, and when he repeated the assault he drew his knife and strack him.

The testimony further for the defense was that of the police in airresting Heiser' and others to prove the prisoner's previous good character.

the case it was shown that Heiser was in fear of great bodily harm, and he was crippled and not able to cope with his assailant, who was showing great anger; that his act if not volun-tary, was at least done under great provocatary, was at reast done think great prosection.

District Attorney Forter spoke for the prosecution, and cited the facts as produced in the testimeny. The jury was not to be governed by the opinion of Mr. Robb, nor of himself, but to consider whether the evidence showed Heiser's act to be justifiable.

Judge Slagie in charging the jury read the laws on hounicide, and pointed out the essential features brought out in this trial to prove degree. He laid particular stress on the points relating to manslaughter, and then told the jury that court would take a recess until 8 o'clock, and then hear their verdict if decided on Heiser Hears the Verdict. Judge Stagle reconvened court at 8 o'clock last evening to receive the verdict of the jury in the case of Andrew Heiser for the killing of Charles Wilson. At 8.15 the jury filed into court and the foreman announced their verdict, guilty of voluntary manslanghter. The jurors were then excused and Heiser remanded to jail. The ex-reme penalty for voluntary manslanghter is 12 years imprisonment and $1,000 fine.

FORREST'S ARGUMENT CLOSED.

The Chief Attorney for the Defense Has Finished His Address.

CHICAGO, December 11 .- At the open ing of the Cronin trial this morning Mr. Forrest resumed his address to the jury on behalf of the defense. He began with a long argument to show that the horse which drove Dr. Cronin away to his death was not Dinan's white horse. The case of Burke was next taken up and the advocate argued that there was no evidence that Burke fied to Winnipeg. When questioned by the police there he voluntarily gave his true name and his address. That did not comport with guilt and flight. There was, he declared, no credible evidence that Burke was at the Carlson cottage on the night of

Mr. Forrest closed his argument which had lasted three days and a half, with an appeal to the jury for acquittal. The court then adjourned until Friday morning, to-morrow being election day and a legal holiday

MAKES THE MAN.

No doubt about it! Even John Chinaman will look like a gentleman, if but wearing gentlemanly Clothing. Much of our worldly success depends on the matter of dress. The slouchy individual, as a rule, does not enjoy the respect and confidence of his neighbors. It is a generally admitted fact now-a-days that good and stylish Clothing is positively necessary in his daily walks and talks by the business man, the doctor, the lawyer, the salesman, the agent, the canvasser. etc. But good and stylish Clothing does not necessarily mean ex-bensive Clothing. Not so at least, if bought at Kaufmanns'. The famous "large sale and small profit" system in vogue at Kaufmanns' has brought the finest Clothing within the reach of everybody. We venture to say that we've sold at least 50 per cent more Overcoats than any competing house, but our stock having been tremendously large, we still find ourselves with several thousand more garments on hand than we should have now, had the weather been favorable. Handsome Overcoats now go at $5, $7 and $8. Fine Overcoats at $10,
